

The story of the tides

Lightfire - Firelight

A fire that rages within,
feel it blaze.

The tears that meet me,
flow their way.

Outside it rains.
A rain that spares nothing,
lies are bared.

Once petrified in the lava mass,
forgotten and alone.
Once trapped in the eternal ice
frozen and divided.

The story of the tides,
that guides and speaks to us:
About the moment when the northern light
meets the fire of the south.

Suddenly!
On the horizon of the firmament,
a flash!
All at once, everything lights up;
The fire swells,
stone and ice shatter.

Crystals shine in all colours
Lava flows, heat pours forth.
In the delta of infinity
fire and ice,
merged, together, united.
One - Ready

Light fire - fire light

Liberated in the company of the tide,
in the history of the moment,

where the northern light meets the fire
of the south.
And only love sprouts
